

Latest AI top 5 news

- 1. The Financial Times unveils its ASK FT chatbot based on Claude, the large language model (LLM)
- 2. FT, OpenAI and META ready for new AI models capable of reasoning. They will also be able to plan
- 3. Alfa Romeo in Milan, high tech solutions tailored to the driver. Perfect

- balance between sporting, innovation and connectivity
- 4. Google Italy training on AI, one million euros to help SMEs (small and medium-sized enterprises) SMEs represent 99% of all businesses in the EU
- 5. 62° Salone del Mobile. Milano gets the AI help for communication

Commentary

AI is entering more and more in our lives. For example, it's getting into Milano Salone del Mobile. Because of this, Italian specialized reporters published a handbook about AI fundamentals. Last but not least, new technologies are ready to be launched by META and OpenAI.

AI, to sum up

Firstly, Amazon CEO is moving forward with AI evolution. Secondly, the Financial Times unveils its new ASK FT chatbot, based on system Claude. To sum up, AI projects are fast expanding.

AI news in detail

AI, ASK FT is the new Financial Times chatbot. All answers to economic questions

The Financial Times has launched an AI chatbot, call ASK FT, that answers questions on the economic and financial issues, generating also links to the Financial Times information sources.

Currently it is only accessible to professional and subscribers, but it may soon be spread to other users.

AI close to reasoning and planning.

OpenAI and META launch: Llama and GPT 5

Open AI and META are planning to launch new artificial intelligence models that have the capability of reasoning and planning. Financial Times pointed out the fact that the companies managers have given a sign that the market's next version will be introduced. META will introduce Llama while Open AI will introduce GPT 5.

AI CEO of Amazon is investing in the startup Anthropic

Amazon CEO has the responsibility of keeping artificial intelligence financial situation under control. He thinks that generative AI will be the biggest technological transformation. The company is investing in the startup Anthropic, which promises to use a different approach.

62° Salone del Mobile, impressive Communication Campaign thanks to AI support

The 62° Salone del Mobile. Milano announces the new edition with an impressive Communication Campaign. The project condenses the identity themes and protagonists of the event into a distinctive and original visual story. The Salone is using AI with the task of understanding, analysing an visualising stories, relationships and emotions.